

Typical Supports

Typical support arrangements are suitable for supporting a few pipes at high level or can be simple, economical structures which are capable of carrying multiple runs of horizontal pipes lower to the ground.